1. What is the Amazon.in Service Centre Replacement Policy?

For issues related to defective items received by a customer, Amazon does not have a provision for processing replacements or refunds to customers. The customer must reach out to the brand/service centre for further resolutions (repair, replacement, warranty, etc.) according to the brand warranty policy. Amazon is an online marketplace facilitating buyer seller discovery for these products.

2. Which items are eligible for Service Centre Replacement Policy?

All products that have "X days Service Centre Replacement" tag on the product page of the item come under this return policy. It is not applicable for Renewed/Refurbished products.

3. Is this policy applicable for new products that are defective?

Yes. This policy is applicable to all new products purchased on Amazon that have "X days Service Centre Replacement" tag (available to view on the product page before purchase).

4. What return reasons come under Service Centre Replacement Policy? Is this policy applicable for new products that are defective?

Only Defective return reasons come under the Service Centre Replacement Policy. For all other return reasons, please check the Returns and Orders Page for available resolutions.

5. Does Amazon provide any post purchase support on these products?

Yes. Amazon provides (1) Remote Troubleshooting assistance for these products (available in the Returns and Orders Page through self-help guides) or you may call Amazon customer care and a technical agent will help you with troubleshooting. (2) Customer Door Step Troubleshooting for specific products and pin codes wherein an Amazon Technician will visit you and help with troubleshooting. This option is available to choose in the Returns and Orders Page or you may call Amazon customer care and a technical agent will help you with scheduling a technician visit. Please note, Amazon can only provide troubleshooting assistance but cannot process any returns/refunds/replacements for these defective products.

6. How will the Brand/Service Centre assist me?

Brand will help you troubleshoot any defect or performance related issue which is covered under product warranty as per their policy. You can contact the brand over their contact no. or email using brand contact details . If the issue is not resolved over the call or email, you may have to visit the nearest brand service center. Brand will provide you with a resolution as per their policy which could include either repairing the product or providing a replacement or other resolutions which are defined under the brand warranty policy at their discretion.
